Anna, a daughter of Hans and Catherine Margaret (Dithmar) Stehr, was born November 29, 1684 in Rumbach, Germany and died after 1736. Resided in Rumbach, Germany.

After buying a wine mill in Rumbach, German, Conrad took the surname Winemiller. That mill is still there and operating. Joy Gilchrist-Stalnaker and her son, Jene Gilchrist, visited there in 2001. It was then owned by Beno Helbling who was a most gracious host. One of Helbling's grandfathers, a Weber, purchased the mill from Conrad's widow. Anna Dorothea remarried after Conrad's death. The children split up the money from the mill. One son, David, died. The daughter married and stayed in the region. Christoph also remained in Germany.

One of the cousins, now living in America, has copies of the requests for Johannes and Conrad to be allowed to go to the United States. Conrad was married to a Marie Catherine SCHMIDT prior to sailing for America. They had a daughter (Magadlena) just before the ship sailed. The money the boys received from the sale of the mill paid their way here.

Johannes Weinmiller, a son of Conrad and Anna Dorothea (Stoehr) Winemiller, was born in Germany about 1814 and died in August 1784 in Fredericktown, MD. He married Kristina Reber, probably in PA.

Johannes emigrated to America in 1738 in company with his brother, Conrad. He was listed as "Johannes Wymuller" on the passenger list of the ship Thistle upon her arrival at the port of Philadelphia September 19, 1738. He took the oath of allegiance along with all other male passengers over the age 16 on the day of his arrival.

Their first child was christened at Christ Reformed Lutheran Church, York, PA in 1742.

Johannes had a land warrant in Lancaster County, PA, for 100 acres dated 25 May 1749. York County was founded from Lancaster County on 19 August 1749. This tract of land was along the Codorus Creek between Glen Rock and Seven Valley, being part in Shrewsbury Township and part in Codorus Township, now Springfield Township.

Probably by 1768 Christina was no longer living. John and son Heinrich moved on to Fredericktown, MD where Johannes bought another farm. Christopher was farming the home place in Adams County, probably buying it on contract, and finally assumed total ownership in 1775.

On 1 September 1775 Johannes sold his land to his son Francis for 25 pounds. It included the original land grant called "Gooseberry Hill," and another one dated 3 Jun 1768. According to the deed (DB G/18) his wife had died. He moved to Fredrick County, Maryland. In the early 1780's, he sold an additional 322 acres to Francis.

Johannes/John died Frederick County in 1784. According to an old Frederick County history, his son, Heinrich (Henry) was later interred in an old German Reformed Church Graveyard where is now the city park that holds the Baker Carillon. Perhaps that is where Johannes was also buried.

His will was written 21 Aug 1784 and probated 30 August of the same year copied from Will Book G M2, page 96,97,98, Frederick County Courthouse, Frederick, MD, as follows:
